British Association of Korean Studies:

We don't have much to report as our activities were impeded somewhat by the impact on the pandemic on our regular workloads.

However, we can report that we are looking forward to resuming our in-person activities in the coming year, following our annual general meeting due to be held in December. We are continuing to see growth in the profile of our journal, the European Journal of Korean Studies.

British Association of Chinese Studies:

We held our 2022 Conference on 31 August and 1 September at St. Anthony's College, Oxford. Our keynote speakers were Frank Dikotter (University of Hong Kong) and Jieyu Liu (SOAS) and the event was very well attended.

The 2023 conference will take place at KCL on 7 and 8 September.

Two new journals have been launched in the middle of 2022 related to Chinese studies:

1) International Journal of Chinese and English Translation & Interpreting (IJCETI)
